We use what nature gives us - good land, ample water, good climate, balanced wildlife diversity, grass and trees. Green pastures store carbon and provide a clean water shed.

The green pastures prevent wildfires and feed our cows that are tended by skilled cattlemen on horseback, and are homes to wildlife.

These special breeds of cows raise their calves naturally without antibiotics or hormones and are bred for our sub-tropical climate.

You should eat more beef.
It's your best source of protein and minerals.
It's environmentally friendly.
It's sustainable.

We will sell 1000 heifers and some bulls in July.
